

Rhino-Rack Australia introduces another work light bracket to its already successful range of light mounting brackets.

This latest bracket gives you greater flexibility and options in applying a vast array of different lights for the right purpose.

These new tail light brackets are attached very easily to the Rhino-Rack Heavy Duty Crossbars with channel nuts and bolts supplied.

While it is designed specifically for the mining industry, this new tail light bracket has the flexibility to be used for many other mounting applications as well.
